

PET ADOPTION PROJECT

Today, many pets are without a home, and often shelters cannot keep up with the space and supplies needed to house them. Also many animal shelters have their own websites, often with information about animals available for adoption.

This project would be a logical step forward with the implementation of a service that will gather data from any animal shelter within certain radius of a user and display information about their animals. This will make it easier to look for adoptable pets and could even provide some additional information about the shelters, such as who is in need of volunteers or which shelter is running out of supplies.

This website should have the following features:

- List local shelters, distance should be configurable
- List animals based on species, or even breed
- Provide information on shelters
- Home page information about shelters looking for help

Similar websites:

- <https://www.petfinder.com/>
- <https://www.petsmart.com/>
- <https://www.adoptapet.com/>